GIVING TUESDAY IS DECEMBER 1

Common Tide

Some things, once lost, do come back.

"It's just there, like it had been waiting."

MARISOL REYES, ECOLOGIST

60 YEARS cut off from the sea

1 TIDE to let the ocean back in

3 WEEKS until the salmon returned

For sixty years, a 1960s dam kept the sea out of the Tillinghast marsh, and one of the richest salmon nurseries on the coast became a cow pasture.

This March, our crew breached the dam and let the ocean back in. Three weeks later, juvenile salmon were holding in the current. There are more marshes still waiting. Help us bring back the next one.

Meg Holloway
CEO, Common Tide

GIVE TODAY
commontide.org/give

Go to popcode.app/commontide and scan this card for a message from Meg.